One day the shy and reserved Keyserling came to Bismarck in great agi-

"What is the matter?" demanded Bis-

"My mother writes that an aunt and two cousins are coming for a week to Berlin, and, as they are very young and inexperienced. I must go about everywhere with them, offering them all sorts of amusements. It is most annoying," groaned Keyserling, "as I have to prepare myself for examinations and have no time for pretty country cousins."

Bismarck saw his chance and imme diately inquired: "Have you ever seen these young girls? Have they ever seen you?" "Never in my life."

"Capital! Nothing could be better. Let me be Count Keyserling for the time being, and you become simple Bismarck. You stay at home, and I shall become a first class cicerone during all the time of their visit."

Keyserling eagerly accepted the proposition. When the young ladies arrived, Bismarck met them as Keyserling and placed himself at their disposition during their stay in Berlin. Keyserling buried himself in his books and thought no more about it until the girls had gone home to the Baltic

A week or two later he was disconcerted by receiving a letter from home in which his mother expressed her great delight in hearing from the young ladies and their mother how immensely they had enjoyed themselves and how very agreeable and kind their

COLLINS' PITCHING TOO MUCH FOR GIANTS

Ray Collins, the Red Sox left hander obtained from the University of Vermont in the Spring was clever enough to beat the Giants yesterday 2-0 in Boston. The Giants had no less celebrated a man in the points than Christy Mathewson. Matty fanned seven of the Speed Boys, but they gathered eight hirs off him, and they came when they were, most needed. Collins on the other hand let the Giants down with four hits, two of which came in one inning, but could not be followed by another. The defeat of Mathewson may be attributed to the superior batting of "Tris" Speaker, the young Texan, whose "homer" settled matters. "Tris" made three hits off "Bix Six," the same as he did on Friday last.

Speaker started to make trouble in the first stanza. Lord and McConnell had expired when Speaker singled past Tenney. Jake Stahl then tripled down the right foul line for the run. Speaker again singled in the third, but was out stealing second. In the eighth Hooper singled, and was forced by Collins. Lord singled sending Collins to third. Speaker arose to the occasion with a stinging drive to center, scoring Collins.

Tenney was the only Giant to reach third. In the fifth Fred rapped for two sacks. He reached third when Lord muffed Myer's liner. He was killed at the plate on Mathewson's grounder to Lord. The score: gathered eight hirs off him, and they

San Francisco, Oct. 14.—With both men reported to be in the pink of condition interest in Saturday's battle between Stanley Ketchel and Jack Johnson is increasing and the advance sale full of fun as his chosen companion.

Count Keyserling, was deficient in it.

There is little betting on the result. and on this difference in temperament hangs a tale.

The general opinion is that Johnson will win and most of the money that has been placed has been at evens that has been placed has been at evens that Ketchel will last 15 rounds.

Sam Fitzpatrick who will look after the interests of Johnson at the ring-side declared to-day that the negro champion will follow the same course with Ketchel that he did when he won the championship from Tommy Burns in Australia. He will keep away from Ketchel and tire him out during the in Australia. He will keep away from Ketchel and tire him out during the early stages of the fight and then go in and try to finish him. This plan worked well against Burns and a stage of the first land then go in and try to finish him. This plan worked well against Burns and a stage of the first land the worked well against Burns and as the differencein height between Johnson and Ketchel will be about the same as between Burns and Johnson, Fitzpatrick believes that his man can keep out of harm's way, tire out Ketchel and then win by the knockout route. On the other hand Ketchel declares that he will carry the fight to the negro from the start and that he will give his dusky antagonist no chance to give his dusky antagonist no chance to stall or to take advantage of his greater height and weight.

Count d'Orsay had an explosive temper. Sir Algernon West says that the count "once called on the publishers, Messrs. Saunders & Otley, on Lady Blessington's behalf and used very strong language. A beautiful gentleman in a white neckcloth said he would rather sacrifice Lady Blessington's patronage than stand such personal abuse. 'I am not personal,' said D'Orsay. Summers was a big failure in fielding his position, and with this weak defence the clever Pirates looked like winners as soon as they had tied the core in the first inning. PIRATES THE BETTER TEAM. There was clever fielding by Leach, Crawford, Davy Jones and Byrne, and Delehanty made one of the prettlest plays of the series, a running one hand pickup early in the game that brought down the house.

Gibson caught a grand good game in contrast to the work of Schmidt and better than Stanage, who was taken out to put in McIntyre for a pinch, but that did not materialize. Willett pitched the last inning after whilet pitched the last liming after a doubleand a single had been made off Summers with none out, and it looked very much as if Willett would have been a stronger choice for the whole game.
